

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

First, to use this form, click on ENABLE EDITING. Then save a copy of this form on your computer, using the Save As option in the File menu of Excel.

Next, fill out the form below. After filling in every field, these instructions turn into a notification of verifiable innocence. Once verified, it changes again to a notification of verified innocence. First, we check if "verifiable innocence" is enough.

Basic instructions:

1. Fill in each white field with your best answer. Most fields use dropdown menus.
2. After filling in item #70, the last item to answer, save this document.
3. Scroll back to the top and review this Notification of Verifiable Innocence.

Save each tab as a PDF that you can send online or print out:

1. Start with the NOVI tab. Select the NOVI tab below. Review to spot any mistakes.
2. Come back here to correct any mistakes you find. Then click Save.
3. Select the File menu. Click on Save As. Choose a location on your device.
4. Below File name, click Save as type dropdown list and select "PDF (*.pdf)".
5. Click the Save button at the lower right of the dialog box.
6. Review your saved version in your Acrobat PDF Reader.

Repeat these step to save the other tabs as a PDF: COVI, EIR, & CQR.

The default setting here lets you print this whole spreadsheet through the last page.

Potential uses for your Notification and Certificate of Innocence.

1. If still incarcerated, send to an innocence project when asking for their help.
2. If still incarcerated, send to the CIU or DA to demonstrate grounds for review.
3. If post-incarcerated, send to prospect employer when they conduct a background check.
4. If post-incarcerated, accompany a lease application for housing.
5. Any other way you can think to notify those who would wrongly discriminate against you.

This is a pioneering tool. You could be among the first to utilize this radical approach. You could help make history. But it comes without any promises. By using this tool, you agree to our terms of use and privacy policy. As a new approach to address the problem of wrongful convictions, you agree we cannot guarantee it will result in exoneration. But it may improve your chances.

$0 estimated eligible compensation under state law

"We know without doubt that the vast majority of innocent defendants who are convicted of crimes are never identified and cleared."

Samuel R. Gross, NRE

You can help change a life for the better

Collateral consequences

Collateral consequences create second-class citizens, often without measurable outcomes to test if meeting their intended purpose. Consequently, they can have the opposite effect, like enabling recidivism--even among the wrongly convicted. You can help change this.

Impacting other's lives

Collateral consequences also impact others in this claimant's life. This claimant shares how others have suffered. You can help improve their lives too!

Challenging and aspiring

Despite challenging needs, this claimant aspires toward life improvements. Removing illicit discrimination will go a long way toward improving this claimant's life.

Suffering discrimination

Most states allow employers to check criminal backgrounds stretching far into the past. These records provide no distinction between sound evidence-based convictions and non-exonerated wrongful convictions, permitting otherwise illicit discrimination.

Removing threats for improving health

Claimant understandably experiences some anxiety from the wrongful conviction. Once hired, much of that should clear up. If not, Value Relating can help.

Claimant understandably experiences some depression from the wrongful conviction. The wrongful conviction produces plenty of depressing economic conditions. Once hired, much of that should clear up. If not, Value Relating can help.

Take away

You need those you trust to be trustworthy. Right? You need them to make informed decisions about you, so they don't waste your precious time. Likewise, claimant needs those they trust, like you, to be trustworthy. They need those like you to be better informed in their decisions regarding them. Acknowledging the widespread problem of wrongful convictions is a start. Using this estimate of innocence can help you make better decisions.

Competitive legitimacy

Wrongful convictions run the gamut from totally innocent to complicated involvement. From convicted of a heinous sex crime that never occurred to complex situations where a child dies and the grieving mother is implicated by discredited forensic science of burn patterns ostensibly set by accerlants.

The business of addressing damages from interpersonal violence is serious business. The sledgehammer approach to many crime investigations suggest “criminal justice” is more criminal than justice. Tunnel vision, confirmation bias, emotionally charged investigations, tainted interviewing and other routines practices ensures wrongful convictions likely occur at a faster pace than currently being cleared by the same process committing these egregious errors.

Can the same conflicted process repeatedly creating damaging mistakes continue to be trusted as the exclusive means to correct such egregious errors? This alternative puts that question to the test. Which would you prefer? Keep pitting human beings against each other from the untested faith as a way to find truth and justice? Or address all the needs involved in each conflict. This “need-response” alternative dares to serve as a better option than the disappointing legal process.

	Legal process: IP & CIU	Need-response: EIF
Claims data	No transparent compiling or posting of claims data	Compiles comparable data and made public
Claims process	Relies on opaque legal process with many conflicts of interest	Available to public scrutiny to determine for themselves
Claimant trauma	Risks retraumatizing claimant with adversarial approach	Allays risks of retraumatizing with conciliatory approach
Claims outcome	Adversarial win-lose outcome	Mutual win-win outcome
Claims result	Rejects most claims for review largely from lack of resources	Posts all claims for public scrutiny and public investment
Timeliness	Slow, opaque process led by embattled lawyers	Instantly available for all to see once posted online
Standard	Accountable to subjectively interpreted law	Accountable to objective reality of resolved needs
Impact	Risks discouraging claimants from ever seeking exoneration again	Empowers claimants to go directly to the people with case

Welcome to competitive legitimacy, which incentivizes alternatives to addressing a common need and awards those most effective in resolving such needs. Competitive legitimacy is a tool of need-response, which applies anankelogy, the new social science for the study and better understanding of many needs. Welcome to this experiment to resolve needs using a fresh understanding of affected justice needs.

c.1 Common factors in wrongful convictions

The Innocence Project has identified these six factors as common in wrongful convictions.

15 Eyewitness Misidentification

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim you were misidentified during a criminal investigation? Did multiple witnesses fall under the Rashomon effect? Do you claim eyewitnesses made critical mistakes that resulted in your wrongful conviction? If yes, describe below.

16 False Confessions or Admissions

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim you were coerced into admitting guilt for something you now insist you did not do? Were you subjected to the Reid Technique? Were you given the option to take a plea deal to avoid the risk of a much harsher sentence? If yes to any of these, describe below.

17 Government Misconduct

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim law enforcement or judicial officials or any other government employee's committed fraud or neglect, or any other misconduct that led to your wrongful conviction? For example, was there any indication of a Brady violation? If yes, describe below.

18 Unvalidated or Improper Forensic Science

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim your wrongful convictions was based, at least in part, on questionable forensic evidence? For example, was the conviction based upon contaminated evidence? Or did a state lab expert provide damaging testimony at trial without presenting the scientific reliability of the findings? If yes to any of these, describe below.

19 Jail Informant

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim your wrongful conviction resulted, at least in part, to a jail snitch or other informant with an apparent conflict of interest? Do you know if such an informant was given any incentives to testify against you? If yes to any of these, describe below.

20 Inadequate Defense

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Do you claim your defense attorney failed to provide an adequate defense to the charges? For example, did your court appointed lawyer invest only a minimal amount of time and energy to help you mount a defense? If yes to any of these, describe below.

c.2 Evidentiary factors

These six items increase a likelihood of wrongful conviction

21 Evidence yet to be DNA tested

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant know of potentially exculpatory evidence has yet to be DNA tested?

22 Non-DNA evidence yet to be considered

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert non-biological evidence was overlooked? Or new evidence surfaced?

23 Exculpatory evidence exists

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert exculpatory evidence exists? If so, does claimant assert a Brady violation?

24 Conviction not corroborated by evidence

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert conviction not corroborated by any empirical evidence?

25 Conviction based on irrational theory of guilt

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert the conviction's theory of guilt makes little if any sense?

26 No actual crime

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert no crime actually happened? Does lack of evidence suggest the alleged incident never occurred? Was claimant acting solely in self-defense, or insist sex was fully consensual?

c.3 Investigative factors

These six items cite common police investigations problems, including two by Judges for Justice.

27 Law enforcement tunnel vision

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant cite confirmation bias distorting the criminal investigation, leading investigators to ignore actual

28 Law enforcement noble cause corruption

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant note any occasion where law enforcement bends the rules to obtain what they view as just ends? E.g., bluffed to intimate a confession, lied about codefendant implicating claimant, withheld or destroyed exculpatory evidence, incentivized deceit from a witness, coached testimony of a complainant.

29 Complainant retraction

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has complainant expressed doubt or retraction of the initiating accusation? Does complainant realize misidentifying perpetrator(s)? Does complainant now support wrongly accused while worried actual perpetrator remains free?

30 Confession from actual perpetrator

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has another person confessed to the crime? Does that person exclude any claimant involvement?

--	--	--

31 Another person implicated in the crime

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Was another suspect or person of interest under investigation but not charged? Does evidence exist that points to another likely culprit?

--	--	--

32 Conviction based upon outmoded law/beliefs

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert conviction was based on law no longer in effect? Does claimant point to debunked beliefs that contributed to the guilty verdict?

--	--	--

c.4 Complicating factors

These six items tend to compound other factors, increasing likelihood of a wrongful conviction.

33 Presenting conflict of interest

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant cite any government official presenting a conflict of interest, such as a prosecutor needing to win the case for reelection?

--	--	--

34 Perjured testimony or false accusation

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert the supposed victim or accomplices made errant claims under oath, whether or not they knew them to be false?

--	--	--

35 Moral panic

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Was accusation made in context of a moral panic, such as the child sex abuse hysteria of the 80s and 90s?

--	--	--

36 Disparate impact

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Is claimant a member of a population that has been disproportionately targeted by law enforcement, such as dark-skinned minorities, immigrants, religious minorities, the mentally ill or LGBTQ persons?

37 Law enforcement prejudice

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant report any specific prior prejudicial hostile contact from any law enforcement official? Or hostile bias from law enforcement against claimant's group identity?

38 Trial by media

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant assert press coverage influenced the judicial process or outcome?

c.5 Claimant's demonstratable innocence

These seven items contrast claimant's behavior against those with actual guilt.

39 Pled not guilty

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Did claimant plead not guilty? Did claimant challenge some or all the charges at trial? Was claimant informed of the trial penalty risk if found guilty and sentenced?

40 Alford plea

If claimed, explain in white box below.

After being confronted with the state's evidence, did claimant take an Alford plea?

41 Duration of innocence claim

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has claimant always maintained innocence? Or persisted in claiming innocence after promptly claiming a coerced confession?

42 Respect for crime victim(s)

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does claimant present sympathy or empathy for victims of crime? Is there any evidence of the claimant being hostile to the complainant(s) prior or after the alleged incident?

43 Positive institutional record

If claimed, explain in white box below.

If imprisoned, does claimant assert they were a model prisoner?

44 No criminal history

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Was the instant offense the only criminal charge to the claimant?

Innocence Projects remain overwhelmed. We can help fill that gap.

c.6 Claimant's innocence recognized by others

These seven items provide independent recognition of claimant's actual innocence.

46 Any relief on appeal

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Did the appellate panel provide any relief from the conviction or sentence?

47 Supporters

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Can claimant provide a list of supporters who believe in claimant's innocence?

48 Affidavits

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Can claimant provide any affidavits attesting to the facts in the case, such as an alibi?

49 Judge support

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has any judge come out in support of claimant's innocence?

--	--	--

50 Prosecutor support

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has any prosecutor come out in support of claimant's innocence?

--	--	--

51 Defense counsel support

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Does defense counsel continue to support claimant's claim to innocence?

--	--	--

52 Influential support

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Has any political or cultural leader come out in support of claimant's innocence?

--	--	--

c.7 Other

This item provides space to account for anything not asked above.

53 Any other relevant items

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Were any charges dropped prior to being indicted? Were any charges dropped, or added, after indictment, and when? Did changes reveal a possible weak case?

--	--	--

No one sits above the law, yet no law sits above need. Laws exist to serve needs, but whose?

And all needs sit equal before nature.

The moral question persists: whose needs get best served by which enforced laws?

The answer determines the level of legitimacy, the level of widely earned trust to serve these needs.

c.8 Process

These five process items may improve our estimation of a likely wrongful conviction.

54 Indictment changed

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Were there any changes to the original indictment by the time of the preliminary hearing or trial?

55 Plea deal turned down

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Was there a plea offer that was turned down?

56 Asserted right to trial

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Did claimant contest the indictment in full and challenge all charges at trial?

57 Discovery with exculpatory evidence

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Could any documentation provided by the prosecution be viewed as exculpatory?

58 Exculpatory evidence not provided in discovery

If claimed, explain in white box below.

Claimant aware of exculpatory evidence not revealed in discovery (i.e., possible Brady violation)?

63 Impact on claimant (legitimacy of exclusionary legal-judicial process)

What are some specific impacts on the claimant after trusting the adversarial judicial process?

- 1 reason for being denied review in the past
- 2 revisiting case risks retraumatization
- 3 depression level from legal-jud. process as only option
- 4 anxiety from relying on same process creating error
- 5 anxiety from slowness of legal-judicial process
- 6 anxiety from prosecutor's power to reinforce error
- 7 anxiety from having little to no control over process
- 8 disillusionment with legal-judicial process

Poor outcomes and impacts from the adversarial legal-judicial system help account for the estimated high volume of unexonerated innocent. This tool exists independent of the judiciary and can either complement it or compete with it. Legitimacy of the adversarial legal-judicial process hangs in the balance. Deeper justice could be the answer.

E. Collateral consequences of wrongful conviction

Other academic articles may exist calculating similar or unique rates, not identified here. Contrary to popular belief, not all prisoners nor felons claim innocence. Only about 15% prisoners claim actual innocence, according to research by the RAND Corporation. The data suggests every claim deserves a sincere consideration. Starting with this claim of verifiable actual innocence.

Using your Estimated Innocence

Save your Notification and Certificate as a separate PDF file.

Here are the steps again for saving each tab as a sharable PDF.

1. Start with the NOVI tab. Select the NOVI tab below. Review to spot any mistakes.
2. Come back here to correct any mistakes you find. Then click Save.
3. Select the File menu. Click on Save As. Choose a location on your device.
4. Below File name, click Save as type dropdown list and select "PDF (*.pdf)".
5. Click the Save button at the lower right of the dialog box.
6. Review your saved version in your Acrobat PDF Reader.

Repeat these step to save the other tabs as a PDF: COVI, EIR, & CQR.

The default setting here lets you print this whole spreadsheet through the last page.

We personally explore how you can go beyond adversarial legalism to demonstrate your innocence.

- Identify the needs of all involved: the accuser, the authorities, and yourself.
- We directly address each other's needs for which laws ostensibly exist to serve.
- Then we demonstrate the higher standard of properly resolving needs, better than adversarial law.

3) Build a campaign together supporting your innocence.

We build an advocacy campaign to publicly support your independently established innocence.

- We impeach the legitimacy of any authority found benefiting from this injustice.
- We improve the legitimacy of any authority who properly responds to your justice needs.
- We publicly exonerate you with a grassroots campaign, enforced with the power of love.

A. PROBLEM: You're trapped in a judicial power relation

Your advocacy campaign takes you beyond the limits of law

Welcome to need-response. Laws exist to serve needs, and this new field goes straight to the needs. One of its tools is the impact parity model. It looks at how power relations impacts your needs.

A power relation exists where one person holds more influence over the other person in the relation. The powerholder is called the 'ascribed impactor' or AI. The powerless is called the 'reporting impacttee' or RI.

The Reporting Impacttee is impacted by the power relation more than impacting it.

As the RI, you humbly yet firmly "report" being impacted by legal-judicial power, as you're forced to fit into their binary categories, against your needs.

The RI typically endures the coercive impact of judicial power relation in a fearful AVOIDANCE PHASE.

Justice is not served. When that pain gets unbearable, the RI may shift to a pain-relieving ADVERSARIAL PHASE.

Peace resumes when both sides identify and address each other's affected needs in this MUTUALITY TRANSITION.

The Ascribed Impactor impacts the power relation more than being impacted by it.

You "ascribe" who forcefully impacts you, giving them a chance to respond to your transcendence of their judicial binarism with "conviction quality".

The AI tends to steer clear of uncomfortable details of those they adjudicate in this AVOIDANCE PHASE.

Justice is not served. When the RI eventually reacts, the AI often guards self from pain in this ADVERSARIAL PHASE.

Peace resumes when both sides identify and address each other's affected needs in this MUTUALITY TRANSITION.

B. SOLUTION: Publicize your viable innocence, as a start

Compelling Innocence Claims

We could publicize your innocence claim with your resulting claim's viable score.

This demo at the right offers one way we could publicize your viable claim. It gives your name (or pseudonym), your tagline that summarizes your claim in a sentence, how DNA testing relates to your claim, your current status of state custody (i.e., your liberty at stake), your state and the year of the wrongful conviction. After your raw "likely score" of viable innocence, visitors can click on a button to VIEW your claim further. With helpful feedback, such summary info could be much different.

Visitors must register to the site to receive permission to view your details. This has visitors agreeing to respect your rights and grants us permission to hold accountable anyone who abuses access to your details.

Let users sort the list as needed

The default order would be newest claim to oldest claims. But users could change the order as needed. They could list them by score, so that those with the highest raw score appears at the top. There could also be the option to list by adjusted score. Which some innocence litigators may favor, knowing how this can significantly reduce their time to process such claims. Other ways could also be offered, such as alphabetical order by last name, by state, or any other way helpful input helps decide.

Invite podcasters to publicize your case

With your permission, we may showcase your viable claim on our Need-Response podcast. You could grant permission to podcasters who show interest. Or you could grant blanket permission, which is quicker.

We can ask you if you're interested in this option to publicize your claim. Click on the image at the right to see a sample online.

M. Power Impact Report

Need-response

REPORT TO:

This is a report generated by need-response, a new field addressing each other's affected needs.

Law enforcement creates a power imbalance between the police and citizens. Officers can influence citizens far more than citizens can influence officers. Once arrested and detained, prosecutors magnify this power imbalance. This 'Power Impact Report' identifies some of the unhealthy consequences from the prosecutor's power.

Even if Claimant is not as innocent as claimant claims, the impact of prosecutorial power can ultimately undermine the interests of justice. When compared to other exonerees, claimant presents a 0% chance of being actually innocent. Consider the following impacts with that in mind.

How the wrongful conviction challenges this claimant's life

- |                                  |   |
|----------------------------------|---|
| 1) economic: NOT REPORTED        | 0 |
| 2) physical health: NOT REPORTED | 0 |
| 3) mental health: NOT REPORTED   | 0 |
| 4) relationships: NOT REPORTED   | 0 |
| 5) will-to-live: NOT REPORTED    | 0 |
| 6) : NOT REPORTED                | 0 |

How the wrongful conviction affects this claimant's aspirations

- |   |   |
|---|---|
| 7) income independence: NOT REPORTED                | 0 |
| 8) maintaining healthy lifestyle: NOT REPORTED      | 0 |
| 9) overcoming depression & anxiety: NOT REPORTED    | 0 |
| 10) restoring family ties: NOT REPORTED             | 0 |
| 11) helping others similarly situated: NOT REPORTED | 0 |
| 12) other aspiration: NOT REPORTED                  | 0 |

With a 0% negative impact on Claimant's needs, and 0% impact on claimant's aspirations, deeper just appears adequately served. Getting to the sources of unjust negative impacts requires us to address unchecked prosecutorial power. Need-response examines the range of outcomes in this "adjudication distribution".

Out of understandable concern for Type 2 errors, prosecutorial power is now apt to make more Type 1 errors. It is now easier for the accused to admit to their human imperfections than for police and prosecutors to humbly admit theirs. There is more to justice than citing misdeeds; full justice requires the liberty to fully resolve needs.
